City nixes OPAC 'peace route'

By BRUCE LARRICK
Editor

A parade permit for the use of Wooster and Main Streets by the Ohio Peace Action Committee on Friday has been denied by Walter L. Zink, safety service director of Bowling Green.

Zink, in a meeting with three representatives of OPAC yesterday, would not accept their petition requesting the use of Wooster and Main Streets on Friday and offered them a permit allowing the use of Court, Prospect and Ridge Streets, which was rejected as inadequate by OPAC.

The reasons Zink gave for the denial of the permit was that there would be "too many complications," including traffic problems and protection of the demonstrators.

"We couldn't protect the demonstrators if they marched on Wooster and Main Streets," Zink said, "but we can provide adequate protection if they follow the route we have offered them."

Dr. L. Edward Shuck, faculty advisor to OPAC, claimed yesterday that the denial was made on a political basis.

"There is no city administrative statement denying the right of political groups to use the main streets. The city officials as individuals disagree with what we're trying to do, and the result is gross discrimination against our civil rights," Dr. Shuck said.

Dr. Shuck, who attended the meeting with students Donald Baldwin and Richard Schager, said the permit offered them would be entirely residential and would not afford OPAC adequate representation of its views.

Baldwin stated that other groups have been allowed to use the main streets in Bowling Green, and that the permit should be granted on this basis.

Recent use of Main Street for parades has been for the Calthumpians (Halloween parade), Bowling Green High School homecoming, and a parade honoring Kathy Baumann, Miss Ohio.

Mayor Gus Skibbe backed up his safety service director, giving much the same reasons for the denial of the permit.

"The demonstrators' presence on Main and Wooster Streets might be inductive to creating an incident that would reflect badly on the University and the city, so I have agreed with the safety director," the mayor said.

"Their silent parade in October was very effective, and I can see no reason why OPAC should not want to follow the same route. The students were quiet and orderly and there was no trouble whatsoever," he said.

The mayor denied any political basis for the decision and said he would not allow a pro-war demonstration to take place on Main and Wooster Streets either.

After denying his personal opinions of anti-war demonstrations had anything to do with it, he said, "Personally, I feel that if I read about the demonstration in Hanoi, I would be encouraged. Something like this has to give aid to the enemy."

Skibbe said he would have allowed the VFW to use Main and Wooster Streets, however, because any parade it would have, especially on Veteran's Day, would commemorate a historical event.

OPAC was considering its options late last night, and hoped to have a decision today.

The options being considered are: defiance of the city and marching on Wooster and Main and being arrested; acceptance of the parade route offered by the city; taking legal action through the Toledo federal court to force the city into granting the permit; or cancellation of the march.

Merchants blame loss in sales on removal of parking meters

By BARB JACOLA
Issue Editor

Downtown merchants contend they have experienced decreased business since City Council approved the removal of on-street parking meters in the central business district.

The meters were removed at the beginning of the year to provide turning lanes to facilitate the flow of traffic on Wooster and Main Streets.

The Traffic and Parking Control Committee of City Council called a special meeting Monday night in the Municipal Building to hear the grievances of the Bowling Green merchants.

"The total number of parking meters in the downtown area is 487. There were 557 previously, so we now have the problem of fewer meters and a much faster traffic pattern in the downtown area," said Mark Kiger, Kiger's drug store.

The owner of Pettl's Alpine Village restaurant, Emil Pettl, asked who requested that the meters be taken out in the first place.

Jackson Miller, committee chairman explained that the new traffic pattern went into effect in January to determine the amount of traffic control devices needed by the city.

"The state required us to change our traffic controls," Miller said, "but we still do not have these devices."

"I have talked to traffic engineers and I have found that there was no order made by the state that said we have to have this traffic pattern," said Bob Walters, barber.

Committee member Paul Ladd agreed.

"The state does require that we have a signal at each lane, however," he said. "We will also have walk signs at the intersection of Main and Wooster Streets."

Most of the merchants agreed that the present traffic pattern worked satisfactorily until the Rte. 6 by-pass was completed.

Walters said that the combination of the by-pass and reduced parking facilities has lowered his business by 50 per cent.

Bowling Green merchants have more competition now than in previous years, also.

Cecil McKinney, Murphy's Department Store, said that merchants must now be concerned with competition from the Falcon Plaza Woodville Mall, Westgate Shopping Center in Toledo and the new Perrysburg Mall which is scheduled to open in 1971.

The operator of Music City, Paul Northern, commented that he has no basis of comparison since his store opened after the new traffic pattern had already come into effect.

Northern observed, however, that he makes at least 30 sales a day from people who just stop in front of Music City, run in, and make a quick purchase. He said that he feels shoppers deserve the convenience of "quick-stop" shopping.

Committee member Thomas Carroll asked the merchants to consider a three-story parking building in the downtown area as a possible solution to the problem.

Ladd then asked the merchants to make use of the areas in back of their stores for parking. He added that in other cities merchants cooperate in the financing of parking facilities through individual assessments on a square-foot basis. The merchants were asked to consider this possibility.

One of the concerns of the merchants was alleviating the downtown parking problem before the Christmas shopping season.

Some of the merchants requested that the mayor grant permission for free downtown parking during the holidays.

Committee chairman Miller said this would be considered as a possibility and that the committee would meet before next Monday's Council meeting to consider the suggestions made by the merchants.

TU's Council suggests BG improvements

By BARB JACOLA
Issue Editor

Toledo University's Student Council president has suggested that Bowling Green State University place more students on administrative committees.

Speaking during an interview held last week, Dave Huey, president of TU's Student Council, offered suggestions for improving the influence and effectiveness of BG's student government.

"Cooperation and communication with students, the University president and the Board of Trustees are the keys to effective rapport in student government," said Huey.

Huey holds a press conference every Wednesday to keep students abreast of the immediate concerns of Student Council.

"We have a very good line of communication with the President, also," said Huey. "His office is always open to us."

TU is the only school in Ohio with elected student representatives on the Board of Trustees.

Third in a series

Huey said. The students have speaking privileges but not voting rights on the Board. Huey feels that this is a major move towards better interaction and communication between administrators and students.

"We have real student participation, respectful negotiations, and responsible leadership, and we have made this known to the President and to the Board," Huey said. "As a result, they are very sympathetic to student demands."

Huey suggested that Bowling Green's Council president should, "go to the University president and ask him to recognize the requests of responsible students-- Ask him to have more students appointed to University committees such as finance and admissions."

A statement of the rights and responsibilities of individual students has been drawn up by TU's Student Council. Huey suggested that this be done at Bowling Green also, with the approval of the Board of Trustees to insure its effectiveness.

The Student Council of Toledo University has also drawn up a statement of rights and responsibilities for athletes. They are presently working also on a due process for all campus organizations.

Try it

A pass-fail system of grading should be initiated at the 100 and 200 course levels.

"Getting the grade" has long been overemphasized at the expense of developing thinking, and creative individuals who do more than memorize classroom notes.

It is hoped that a pass-fail system will guide students toward studying because of interest in a subject, rather than looking for "snap" courses that promise an easy A or B.

There are strong arguments against a pass-fail system. For this reason the lower level courses should be made pass-fail first. This will allow for a thorough evaluation of the system's effectiveness before the entire student body is exposed to the system.

Some arguments against the pass-fail system are weak, such as the Placement Service's claim that the system would be disastrous for recruiting purposes.

But it seems that students should come here primarily for an education, not to be recruits. Any proposal to improve education should not be rejected because it interferes with secondary services of the University.

Other arguments against the pass-fail system are more solid. These include the assertion that the system would tend to make the students lazy, with the incentive of grades removed.

The best way to resolve the issue of whether a pass-fail system will work is to give the system a try.

If the system doesn't work, it can be changed. But the potential benefit to education at Bowling Green is too great for the issue to be pushed aside and forgotten.

The basic issue

Yesterday, Veteran's Day, was to be the high point of week long demonstrations by Americans attempting to prove that there really is a "silent majority."

Across the nation, people are being urged by veterans', civic, and fraternal groups to fly the flag, burn their headlights, parade and otherwise show their support of President Nixon's Vietnam policy throughout the week.

However, while the demonstrators are proclaiming support of Nixon's gradual-withdrawal policy, they are basically motivated as a reaction to the antiwar protests which they feel have captured the headlines for too long.

They have grown tired of the Moratorium's "carnival in the streets", as Vice President Agnew labelled them, and consequently believe it is time to start their own "carnival", if, indeed that is the new description of demonstrations.

It is unfortunate the pro-Nixon demonstrations early this week and the anti-war demonstrations coming up in the next few days are being played against each other.

For the American people, young and old alike, are finally united behind the basic issue -- withdrawal, whether gradual or immediate, of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

letters to the editor

Should support Vietnam policy

In regard to your editorial in the Nov. 5 issue, I would like to express a few of my opinions to throw a little more light on your own views of President Nixon's address.

I suppose it was a disappointment to those in the definite minority of people who want immediate withdrawal, but to the rest of us who support the President's policy of gradual withdrawal, it was only a clarification of his views, and possibly my only disappointment was that more troop withdrawals could not be announced.

I say that it disappointed a minority because of a Gallup Poll conducted by telephone after the speech showed that 77 per cent of those asked agreed with the President's policy.

Also, the President did say that the peace talks were making no progress, but that the only alternative is not just immediate withdrawal, which you advocate, but gradual withdrawal with the strengthening of the army of the Republic of Vietnam.

He expressed the fear, and I felt justifiably so, that immediate withdrawal would only result in the slaughter of thousands of dissenters against the Communist philosophy, dissenters just like you.

I feel that we should support the President's policy in this time of soul searching for the answer, and hope that his policy is the right policy, not only for us, but for those people of the Republic of South Vietnam.

Thanks for UCF donations

So often it happens that we fail to take enough time to thank others for what they have done for us.

Now, while I have the chance, I would like to thank Charities Board and the students of this campus for making possible the work of the United Christain Fellowship Service Committee in Perrysburg Heights.

This year, because of student donations last year and Charities Board's decision to donate a portion of this money to the Perrysburg Heights project, we have been able to supply the Heights with 65 tutors every Wednesday evening and with 15-30 students to conduct recreational programs each Saturday morning.

Without this help, our program would be much harder to implement. Certainly the extra benefits which we can now offer the children such as arts and crafts materials and occasional field trips and/or parties would be almost nonexistent.

I'm certain the children we work with would want to join with me in saying, thank you.

A time out to thank Charities Board and BGSU students is definitely in order.

Barbara Grissinger
UCF Service Committee

Time is now

The peace movement has made tremendous progress in the last few years, and many people now oppose the war. But the war still continues with a tremendous loss of life every day.

If you're against the war, but think there's nothing you can do about it-- you're wrong. The first step, if you support any cause, is to thoroughly educate yourself so that you can support your views.

If you know what you are talking about, others might start to listen. Then you should be willing to demonstrate your feelings.

You must reject the easy anonymity of the silent majority or minority. The most important step, however, is in communicating your beliefs to others.

Only by building a broadly based anti-war coalition which constitutes a majority of this country can any truly effective action be taken.

During the November Moratorium you will be able to engage in all of these styles of activity. Tonight you can listen to a professor who spent a year in Vietnam and will be speaking on the Vietnam Statewide.

Following this there will be a workshop for anyone interested in a community work-in on Thursday. For those who wish to demonstrate their opposition to the war, there will be a march in Bowling Green the 14th, and a mass march in Washington the 15th.

The situation is too grave to sit back and do nothing. Now is the time for involvement.

Joy Teckenbrock
251 S. Prospect

Simple answer

One objection to the pass-fail grading system is the lack of criteria for distinguishing the above average student from the average.

There is a simple answer. Instead of P(A,B,C,D) and F as the two available marks, have three marks; F, P(C,D) and E(A,B).

This provides a broader range of rewards without all the uptightness of the present system.

Greenery and shade--such a shame

By JAMES GUILFORD
Student Columnist

Why did they cut down the tree that stood by the Student Services building? You know, the one that stood next to Ridge Street between the Student Services building and the Health Center.

Anyway, there was once a nice, big tree there and now there isn't. The reason they tore it out is it got in the way when they moved the Ridge St. sidewalk 12 feet closer to the street.

The B-G News is published Tuesdays thru Fridays during the regular school year, and once a week during summer sessions, under authority of the Publications Committee of Bowling Green State University.

Opinions expressed in editorial cartoons or other columns in the News do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University Administration, faculty or staff or the State of Ohio. Opinions expressed by columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the B-G News. Editorials in the News reflect the opinions of the majority members of the B-G News Editorial Board.

I sometimes wonder if maybe the tree was worth a bit more than the few feet of concrete it would have taken to bypass it. I soon recover from such delusions.

Then there was that tree out on Sterling Farm that gave its life for the northeastern corner of the new parking lot. It may be argued that two parking spaces are more valuable than a 50-year-old tree. Perhaps this is true.

If it is, I would then suggest that the cemetery be cleared and paved next. To save expense and legal difficulties, the graves should remain closed. We will just pave over the graves. Appropriate markings may be painted on the asphalt surface.

The removal of Sterling Farm trees would also reduce the practice of obscene actions of affection between students there.

Another pet project of mine is the removal of all trees from the main campus lawn. This project would save the University thousands of dollars in maintenance costs.

There would be no trees and so, no leaves to be picked up every fall. The next logical step is removal of the grass from the lawn.

Paving the main campus would facilitate the twice-yearly BG ROTC reviews. Paving would also provide more effective police control of students participating in such anti-social activities as the Vietnam Moratorium. The hard surface would further discourage the loitering of overly-affectionate students.

When our ultimate goal has been achieved and all living plant life has been removed from the campus of Bowling Green State University, we may encounter some reactionary feeling. It may be that some will demand replacement of trees and grass, Heaven forbid.

These impractical persons, including certain wealthy friends of the University, should not be offended; but it would be insane to replace trees and grass so carefully removed.

I therefore recommend that the administration begin planning for a rather sizable purchase of artificial plants. Polyethylene trees, flowers and grass would be easily movable (for planning flexibility), long-lasting and immune to the effects of air pollution.

Constant care of grass in the summertime would not be necessary--only an occasional vacuuming would keep plastic grass in top shape. It could be rolled up and stored during the winter, making snow removal much easier.

Artificial plants are almost indistinguishable from real. They have many advantages but none of the disadvantages of real, live plants and serve the purpose of appeasement of nature reactionaries.

But of course, we cannot go too far with this plastic tree thing or we will be right back where we started. If we are not careful, our campus, after the denuding project, might once again become green and shady. Wouldn't that be a shame?

Path clears for Senate approval

Draft lottery nears reality

WASHINGTON (AP) - The way was cleared yesterday for Senate approval of President Nixon's proposal for a draft lottery as advocates of broader reforms agreed to defer the question until next year.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., leader of the draft reform forces, told reporters after a meeting with senior Senate leaders and members of the Armed Services Committee that he will joint their moves to block any amendments to the bill permitting a lottery.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., the committee chairman, said "I feel greatly encouraged that a bill can move along and will pass the Senate without amendments."

He and the committee promised to hold extensive hearings on draft reform proposals--including changes in deferments, conscientious objector status, methods of classification, and makeup of local draft boards--no later than Feb. 15.

There was no immediate reaction to the move by the Senate's Democratic leadership who have insisted the draft should be reformed in one package and not one piece at a time.

All members of the committee pledged to act to avoid amendments on the Senate floor aimed at expanding the House-passed bill which calls for random selection of draft eligible young men from a pool composed of men mostly 19 years old.

Panhel declares fraternity boycott

The social policy chairman of Panhellenic Council announced Monday night that sororities will not participate in any interfraternity events after September, 1970. Susan Austermiller, junior (Ed), expressed the views of Panhellenic Council, saying the move was due to a lack of "participation and cooperation" by fraternities. One example is the lack of activity of some fraternities on Homecoming floats.

Mark Reisman, Interfraternity Council president, expressed concern over the recent resolution adopted by Panhel. Reisman said the problem could be alleviated by "more participation" of fraternity members in fraternity-sorority events. The participation would have to take place during the "remainder of the academic year," he said.

One cause of the difficulty is attributed to a lack of communication between Panhel and IFC.

A tentative schedule was set for an executive council meeting of Panhel and IFC to work on the problem.

Why does the lounge in Batchelder Hall close at 11 p.m., while the one in Ashley stays open until midnight? -- J.C.

Jan Schnack, president of AWS, said that the houseboard of Batchelder chose to close the lounge to men at 11 p.m. when it wrote the Hall's constitution last year. Similarly, Ashley's houseboard decided to keep lounge areas open until midnight.

Miss Schnack pointed out that Batchelder closes early so that residents may take advantage of lounge facilities without having the regulations which govern the lounge when it is open to visitors.

She said it is possible for this year's houseboard to change visiting hours.

Is today's off-campus housing meeting open to student gripes and questions?--J.H.

Sheldon Westman of the Housing Office said the meeting is intended to inform the landlord of changing regulations of the University on off-campus living.

"We're aiming this meeting at the individual homeowner who is renting his property to students. We will have a question and answer session, but we want to direct it toward the landlords' questions," Westman commented.

He added that the Student Housing Association is planning a similar meeting with students who live off-campus.

This afternoon's meeting features a speech by Dr. James Bond, vice president of student affairs, and will be at 3 p.m. in the Alumni Room of the Union. It is open to the public.

Huey feels that the Council president should always attend Board meetings whether he has something to say or not.

"Communication with Faculty Senate is also very important," Huey added.

Huey considers the present student government at TU to be very progressive.

Huey feels that it is an area of student interest and concern, though. The TU Student Council intends to carry out the project.

Army on alert as protest nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — A small advance party from the 82nd Airborne Division flew here from Ft. Bragg, D.C. yesterday to prepare for possible movement of paratroopers to the capital in connection with the weekend antiwar demonstrations.

Pentagon officials said no final decision has been made, but they indicated a light brigade of between 1,500 and 2,000 paratroopers may be brought up before the weekend.

The 25-man advance party from the 82nd, equipped with three small scout cars, arrived at Andrews Air Force Base and moved out to check on communications, billeting and other details.

The Defense Department called it "a normal part of the precautionary measures we have been asked to take by the Justice Department."

A spokesman stressed that "in no event would federal units be moved into the area unless and until requested by the Justice Department."

Any such unit brought into the capital area would be stationed on federal property and would be used in a peacekeeping mission only after a presidential proclamation of emergency, authorities said.

However, federal troops could be used to guard federal buildings without such a formal proclamation.

Meanwhile, the New Mobilization Committee appealed to President Nixon to meet personally with its spokesman to discuss the Justice Department's refusal to permit a mass march on Saturday down Pennsylvania Avenue and around the White House.

The department has refused the permit on grounds that it would be difficult to control any violent outbreaks near the business area of Pennsylvania Avenue. Instead the department has offered to let the marchers go from the Capitol down Constitution Avenue to the mall area behind the White House.

There was no immediate comment or response to the telegram from the White House.

WSA sponsors 'Viet Stalemate' as lecture topic

The World Student Association will sponsor a lecture on the "Viet Stalemate" at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the forum, Student Services Building.

Dr. Daniel Grady, acting chairman of the political science department at Antioch College, will be the featured speaker.

Dr. Grady has spent more than a year in Vietnam interviewing Viet Cong soldiers who have defected. He attended the Paris peace talks this past summer, and is presently writing a book concerning the National Liberation Front.

Following Dr. Grady's presentation, the Ohio Peace Action Committee will meet in the forum for a community workshop which will make plans for touring the city house-to-house to gain supporters for this week's Moratorium.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Buoyed by an all-clear from the weatherman for Friday's blast off toward the moon, the Apollo 12 astronauts relaxed yesterday as launch preparations continued without a hitch.

Astronauts Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean spent most of the day resting in crew quarters to assure they remain in good health for their demanding 10-day lunar landing mission scheduled to begin Friday at 11:22 a.m. EST.

Work continued on schedule on the launch pad, with relatively little activity yesterday.

The countdown entered a planned 16-hour hold at 9 a.m. after the launch crew successfully checked communications between the moonship and mission control in Houston, Tex.

With President Nixon and his wife Pat looking on from a VIP bleacher site 3 1/2 miles from the launch pads, crews will have from 11:22 a.m. until 2:27 p.m. to rocket Navy Cmdrs. Conrad, Gordon and Bean moonward on Friday. After that time, the moon is not in a favorable position with relation to Cape Kennedy launch pads.

If problems prevent a launching Friday, another opportunity will occur Sunday beginning at 2:09 p.m. After Sunday, another favorable launching period does not occur until Dec. 14.

The Apollo 12 trio are to swing into lunar orbit at 10:47 p.m. Monday, with Conrad and Bean landing on the moon at 1:53 a.m. the following Wednesday.

The two men plan to spend 31 1/2 hours on the surface and take two separate moon walks lasting about 3 1/2 hours each.

TWO HEADS LOOKING FOR A BALL -- Wheeling ruggers pursue the ball in last Saturday's action.

Falcon rookies drop third tilt to Broncos

By VIN MANNIX

Assistant Sports Editor

The scrappy freshman Falcons took it on the chin for the third time this season, dropping a 36-21 decision to a tough Western Michigan crew last Friday.

BG's rookies showed a lot of offense the first half and held a 21-13 lead at intermission. The second half was a different story however, as the Broncos came up with 23 points while shutting out the Falcons.

"I thought we'd come out and really put the wood to them the second half," coach Reicosky said. "We had a decent lead, we could've really piled it on them, but we went out flat that half. Western was fired up and that was it."

Western spread its scoring out during the second half, starting with the opening kickoff. Following a long return, Western's Steve Doolittle wasted no time taking his offense in for the Broncos' third touchdown, making it BG-21, WMU-20. The Broncos took the lead shortly after on a close range field goal, set up by a Doolittle bomb to Olden Wallace, a 9.7 100 man.

The young Broncos beefed up their lead later to 30-21 on a drive from midfield after they had intercepted Zak for the third time. They scored once more at the end of the game.

Coach Reicosky probably wishes there could've been some way to flip-flop the first and second halves, because it was during the former that the young Falcons showed their stuff.

"We really moved the ball then," said Reicosky. "Except for a few mistakes, we looked great...but that second half, Man, we didn't look like a team at all."

The "main mover" for the Falcons was tailback Steve Love who rushed for 71 yards and one TD. Love, a sub running back, got into the action when Dave Bower, the no. 1 tailback, who'd gained 58 yards and one TD, was thrown out of the game for throwing a haymaker at a Western Michigan line-backer--from behind.

Western had also scored twice but missed an extra point, while the Falcons, making both of theirs, achieved a 14-13 lead.

BG's freshmen soon upped their lead to 21-13 on a really "heads-up" play by safety Bob Kilpatrick. A Western Michigan punt was partially blocked and sailed straight up into the air. While everybody stood around, seemingly entranced by the perpendicular rise and descent of the ball, Kilpatrick caught it on the run and zipped into the end zone 20 yards away.

Athletes of the week

Strong tussle for honors

It was one of Bowling Green's strongest weekends in sports, and the competition for athlete of the week honors was fiercely waged.

Sid Sink grabbed the cross country honors with his second consecutive MAC title despite being out of practice for a week.

Bill Roeder

Larry Kelly

Vern Wireman, Bill Roeder, Phil Villapiano, and Larry Kelley won the football honors as the Falcons copped sole possession of second place in the MAC.

Rugby named two winners in Jerry Nicolossi and Rick Schneider.

Sink is almost a weekly winner and repeated on the strength of a 30:31.9 clocking in the championships. It was only about 10 seconds off his winning time last year.

Nicolossi was awarded the rugby honors for his hard hitting tackles throughout the Wheeling game. Jerry was named the outstanding forward for the Falcons by coach Al Bohl.

The other nominee was Schneider with his offensive play especially a second effort that brought the Falcons their first score of the game. Schneider was the club's scoring leader last year but has been sidelined much of this season with an injury.

Rated at 87 per cent efficiency Vern Wireman copped the offensive back award for the Ohio game. Vern completed 18 of 31 passes for 180 yards to continue his plus 50 per cent passing. He also registered two more touchdown passes.

Offensive guard Bill Roeder was given the line honors with a 90 per cent blocking efficiency. It was Roeder's first time as line winner.

Larry Kelley picked off his third interception of the MAC season and fifth overall in winning the defensive back honors. The Falcon secondary has now picked off 17 on the season. Kelley was rated at 98 per cent efficiency.

Phil Villapiano with 12 tackles and eight assists rounded out the football awards with the defensive line honors.

Ruggers bow to Wheeling

By JACK O'BREZA

Sports Writer

Sheer guts just weren't good enough to overcome insurmountable odds. That was the story of the BG rugby club's 16-10 heart-breaking loss to the Wheeling Gators.

Playing without five regulars, the Falcons made a desperate attempt to defeat a club which had beaten them 41-0 last spring.

It was a hard fought battle all the way. Both teams were playing extremely rough and players were receiving numerous injuries through out the contest.

Wheeling drew first blood when the Falcons could not control the ball following a penalty kick by the Gators. Pat Nolan raced down field and downed the loose ball for a try. The conversion by Kevin Keegan was good and Wheeling led, 5-0.

The Gators missed their second scoring opportunity when a penalty kick fell short of the goal posts.

The Falcons then drove deep into Gator territory on three successive occasions, but could not score. Butch Falk, lured out of retirement, twice broke away on long runs before he was stopped inside the Wheeling 25 by their fullback, Bob Thorton.

Following a long penalty kick by Aidan Kelly, which fell short of its mark, BG twice more drove deep into Wheeling territory, and were again stopped by Thorton.

Finally Falk broke loose again, but this time BG capitalized on the run and tallied a try. After several passes, Rick Schneider finally went in for the score. The kick by Schneider was good and at halftime the game was tied at five all.

Wasting no time, Wheeling scored their second try to the contest when Jeff Wolfe took the ball in with just minutes gone in the second half. The kick failed and the Gators took an 8-5 lead.

Once again the Falcons drove deep into Gator territory before the tide turned and Mike Whalen scored following a scrum near the BG end line. That put the Gators in front 11-5.

The next few plays saw an exchange of ball possession before the Falcons were awarded a penalty kick inside the Gator 10. The kick by Schneider was off to the left and BG's hopes for an upset were shattered.

Minutes later, Wheeling controlled the ball again and were driving towards their fourth try of the afternoon. Once more the Gators were successful as Jeff Wolfe scored his second try of the game. Keegan's conversion was good and the Gators increased their lead to 16-5.

On the last play of the game, Butch Falk ran 33 yards for the final try of the contest. The kick by Schneider was good and the Falcons saw the Gators walk off with a 16-10 decision.

"We just didn't pass that well," said injured back Jim Gerding.

"We just couldn't put everything together towards the end when it really counted," added coach Al Bohl.

The "BG" squad didn't fare any better, losing to the Wheeling squad 19-6.

Soccer squad tied for MAC crown

By JACK CARLE

Sports Writer

Over the weekend various things happened to Bowling Green soccer in the ratings and also in the chase for the MAC soccer crown.

Kent State tied the Falcons for the league championship by defeating Ohio U 3-2. Both BG and Kent finished with 3-1 records. Last year the Falcons won the conference championship and had the first winning season with a 5-4-1 mark. This year BG shared the MAC crown, finished the season with a 7-3 mark, broke 14 records and tied one during the course of the season.

In the latest Ohio Collegiate Soccer Association (OCSA) weekly poll Bowling Green is again ranked fourth with 36 points, three votes behind number three Miami also an MAC soccer team. Two other MAC schools are rated in the top ten, OU is sixth and Kent State is tied for tenth.

For the first time Bowling Green has been ranked in the top ten in the Midwest Collegiate Soccer Ranking Board. BG was tied for ninth in the latest ratings with Green Bay. Schools from eight states are considered in the balloting, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Last Friday was the deadline for nominees for the 1969 Inaugural All-Ohio Senior College All-Star game to be played Nov. 23 in Toledo. Three seniors from the Falcons soccer team were placed in nomination by coach Mickey Cochrane.

Goalie Gary Kovacs, halfback Fred Weismann and centerforward Jim Brewer are being considered for one of the 16 spots on the north squad of the All-Stars. Kovacs holds the records with most goalies saves in one game (28), most individual saves in one season (149) and most saves in a career (269). Brewer, the highest scorer in BG's soccer history, holds the record for most career points (25 on 18 goals and seven assists) and is tied for most points in one season (12). He is also tied for the record for most goals in one game with four, holds the records for most goals in a career with 18 and for most assists in one season with five.

Weismann was All-Ohio for two years at left wing and is again an All-Ohio candidate at halfback for the Falcons. This year he scored only four points but was instrumental in the second half comeback at Ohio State in the final game of the year after arriving late at the contest because of a delay in Bowling Green.

The teams will be chosen Nov. 16 at a meeting at Ohio Wesleyan. The committee consists of Cochrane of BG, Jim Sarno of Toledo, Don Nelson of Miami, Bob Nye of Wooster and Ted Barclay of Denison.

The coach and assistant coach for each of the North-South All-Stars will be chosen based on won-loss record and schedule played.

GOTCHA -- Wheeling ruggie made the grab in Saturday's win over the Falcons.

TAKING AIM -- Seemingly aiming for the Bobcat defender, Art Curtis attempts an extra point in the Falcons 23-16 win over OU.
